

A child swings a ball on the end of a string around his head. The ball travels in a circular path at a constant radius and at a constant speed. When the ball is at point P the child releases the string. Where does the ball go?

